$30,000 worth of stock in the New York club. With Mercer secured from Washington, providing Freedman pays the price asked by Wagner. the New Yorks will be somewhat bolstered up in the pitcher's box, but at that Mercer would rather play third base or in the outfield. It appears that Ewing will not get full sway, as Rusie has received a contract calling for such a small salary that he threatens to stay out of the game again. If Ewing had his own way he yould sign Ruste almost at his own terms, as Buck believes the big fellow is still the greatest pitcher in the profession. As Freedman has stated positively that he will not engage Mc-Graw or any member of the Baltimore team, it can be seen that Ewing will start the season with a team made up something like this:

Pitchers, Seymour, Doheny, Carrick, Gettig, Mercer and Garoni; catchers, Warner, Wilson and Grady; first base, Doyle (if he is not released) and Conroy; second base, Gleason; third base, Davis; abortstop, Long; outfielders, Duffy, Van Haltren and Foster; extra men, Woodruff and Fleming.

Tom O'Brien, who played left field for the New Yorks last season has been taken back by the Pittsburg club, which merely "loaned" him to the local club last season. Friends of Ewing say that if he should actually receive power, backed by unlimited cash, to put a firstclass team in the field, the above make-up would not be sanctioned by him. Therefore, from present indications, the New Yorks will not be considered factors in the race for the League championship, for the reason that the list mentioned above contains too many men who have seen their best days.

The Brooklyn club is pretty sure to have the pick of the Baltimores. THE SUN predicted some time ago that if Hanlon thought it inadvisable to bring McGraw to Washington Park to play third base he would place Dahlen at that corner of the diamond and put De Montre-ville at short field. With Sheckard centre field and the pitching corps strengthened by McGinnity, Howell, Nops or Kitson, it can be readily appreciated that the champions will be well fortified when the race begins. The Philadelphia Club has made no move to secure some of the talent placed in the market by the retiring clubs. But it would not be at all surprising if Rogers and Reach got McGraw to play third base and act as captain-manager. McGraw is the best advertised ball manager. Metiraw is the best advertised ball player in the country just now and the various clubs recognize that he will be a drawing card wherever he may play. It is known that the Chicago club is after MeGraw and is prepared to pay big money for his release, providing the magnates do not decide to "freeze" him out, which policy may be dropped if there is enough money in sight for his services. Wherever McGraw goes he will be anxious to take Robinson with him. Chicago has already corralled Padden and Slagle from the Washingtons, both of whom will be of service. Dexter of Louisville and McCarthy, the former l'ittsburg outfleder, have also been gathered in by Jim Hart.

With Fred Clarke as manager and the cream of the Louisvilles to fill up the gap the Fittsburg Club will present a formidable front. In fact the pennant is already won by that city according to the cranks and critics of that town. They point to this array of talent with supreme confidence: Clarke, Beaumont, Wagner, McGann, Ritchey, Ely, Williams, Leach, Cunningham, Waddell, Phillipi, Leever, Sparks, Zimmer, Schriver and others. Robison has been pulling several wires to strengthen his St. Louis team. He expects to secure one or two of the Baltimore stars, including a pitcher. He also figures on patching things up with Mike Griffin. Brush is known to be dissatisfied with the present make up of the Cincinnatis. He enpresent make-up of the Cincinnatis. He engaged Robert Allen, the old Philadelphia shortstop, as manager sometime ago, but predictions are made that when the proper time comes Brush will join in the angling contest for McGraw. From these indications, therefore, it is shown that National League ball this year will be faster than ever and the race for the championship will not be a walk-over for any of the teams.

Steve Flanagan, the remarkable Philadelphia bantam, wants to meet Terry McGovern for the championship in that class. In fighting trim Flanagan weighs 105 pounds, but he has frequently taken on opponents outweighing him by ten or twenty pounds. Flanagan says that McGovern has no right to style himself the bantanweight champion for the reason that he cannot get down to the weight prescribed. According to Flanagan the Brooklynite is now a full-fledged featherweight and cannot reduce below 118 pounds, at which he defeated Dixon, and be strong. The Philadelphian puts the bantanweight limit at 110 pounds, but there is a difference of opinion on this point. McGovern won the bantam championship of the world from "Pedlar" Palmer at 116 pounds, or rather catchweight, which was close to these figures. On the strength of that victory McGovern has been considered the bantam champion ever since. But he won the featherweight championship from Dixon at a limit two pounds higher, which does not seem to be in line with the ideas of exacting critics. Flanagan's statements make it clear that the weight limits in their various classes should be revised by competent authorities on boxing.

Sharkey has come out with a bold statement to the effect that he will make a match with Fitzsimmons, now that Jeffries is tied up with Corbett. Sharkey says he will agree to any reasonable terms named by the Cornishman. The unsatisfactory result of their battle at San Francisco, in which Referee Wyatt Ears and an alleged four blow delivered by Fitz were the features, has caused a general demand ever since for another meeting. Sharkey has undoutedly improved since that memorable event, as he showed in his recent battles with Corbett and Jeffries, so that by defeating him, Fitzsimmons would stick quite a feather in his cap. Sporting enthusiasts believe that if Sharkey and Fitz should come together they would araw more gate money than the coming encounter between Jeffries and Corbett, especially for the reason that there is a feeling of more bitter rivalry between the sailor and the lanky puglist than exists between the present champion and the pompadour boxer. Fitzsimmons has already declared a willingness to tackle sharkey, so that it is now in order for the men to arrange details or stop talking for the

From Hot Springs comes a rumor that it will take an extraordinary spell of hard training to fit Jeffries for his battle with Corbett. The champion has taken on weight, it is said, until he now tips the beam at 245 pounds. It is conceded by his friends that he will be compelled to reduce to at least 205 pounds if he hopes to make a successful fight with the light-footed, clever Corbett. It was shown in his fight with Sharkey that Jeffries had grown slower than when he conquered Fitzsimmons, and the reason ascribed was that he had experienced difficulty in taking off superfluous flesh, thereby weakening himself. Jeffries has not dissipated much and says that his buik is the result of natural causes.

Well-informed men say there is a serious misunderstanding between Harvard and Princeton over the dates of their annual baseball games this year. It is stated that the Crimsons have refused to play the series in the latter part of May, as they have done for the last five years, contending that there is not sufficient time for them to develop a nine into championship form. To strengthen this argument they call attention to the better article of ball usually played by Harvard against Yale in June, and they point to the five successive defeats administered by Princeton. For this reason they insist that the annual games between the universities be scheduled later in the season.

tween the universities be scheduled later in the season.

It has always been the policy of a Princeton management to finish the season with Yale, and the schedule this year has been arranged with that in view, June 2 and 9 being the dates set aside. Because of these games, and in particular, owing to the fact that the present school year at Princeton ends June 13, the management at Princeton, it is said, has found it impossible to concede to Harvard's demand Obe game was then talked of by Harvard, but failed to meet with favor at Princeton. It is further reported that Princeton then proposed that one game be set for May 29 and another for June 16; but, in case Princeton is obliged to meet Yale in a third game to decide the series, the latter date should be changed to June 19. This proposition, it is said, was regarded avorably by the Cambridge men at first, but later was rejected because a game on either June 16 or 19, they said, would be too near their match with Yale. Lately Princeton has made CURRENT SPORTING TALK. a more conciliatory offer, which, it is believed has brought the difference nearer to settlement than it has, been at any other time since negotiations were begun. It is likely that a definite conclusion will be reached this week.

Stockton and Fearing Win the American

Championship in Doubles. Boston, Feb. 12.-The American amateur racquet championship in doubles was won today by L. M. Stockton and George H. Fearing Jr., on the Boston A. A. court. The new champions had for opponents, Payne Whitney and Austin Potter, who won by default from F. F. Rolland and T. S. Gellespie of the Montreal Racquet Club on last Friday. It was not until the last moment that the committee decided to have a final match, owing to the small number of entries. Stockton and Fearing won four out of the six games by superior team and individual work. Whitney played an excellent game, his placing being better than any he has heretofore exhibited, but his service was not so effective as usual. Stockton, especially, displayed good judgment in returning from Whitney's service, and his clever placing scored many points for his side. Fearing used the many points for his side, rearing used the side walls considerably, as did Whitney, while Potter and Fearing played up and down the court invariably. Potter's service was strong, but he made many misses that would have been easy for him if he had played his usual game. Fearing backed up his team mate well, and his service was also strong. E. H. Heiles was referee and Tom Pettitt marker. The scores:

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 12.-The Harvard-Yale hockey game has been set for Feb. 19 or 26, at the St. Nicholas Rink, New York. If possible the game will be played on the former date. It will take place under the management of the Harvard and Yale clubs of New York, and not of the rink management, as it was on this condition only that permission for the Harvard team to play in New York was received.

The Shamrock Harriers celebrated Lincoln's Birthday with a cross country run over the Van Cortlandt Park course. Columbia and New York to the usual contingent of harriers. The run was one of the best contested this season. G. A. Frede of the N. Y. American golfers electrified Harry Vardon resterday when he made his first appearance in an exhibition match in this country, at the Laurence Harbor Country Club against the best ball of the club's best amateurs. Mortimer M. Singer and John M. Ward playing against him in the morning and Singer and H. C. Villepigue against him in the afternoon. It was a thirty-six hole match. R. H. Robertson, President of the M. G. A., was the referee. The only special rule was that when a ball was imbedded in mud the referee had the right to lift and drop it. It was a dismal, overhanging day, with the clouds at times dropping down sprinklings of rain, yet the gallery of about eight hundred was faithful to each stroke and followed the match throughout, even to the odd holes after the contest was over. After the first hole, where Vardon missed his chance for a four in putting weakly, the champion set out to show his quality. Thereafter, although Ward was succeeded in the afternoon by Villepigue, the Singer combination was at he mercy of the noted professional.

Vardon faced the first "gallery" to watch his play that had assembled in this country. Although the hero of a hundred battles on the links of Great Britain, the presence of a new 'gallery" in a strange land was not unnaturally a cause of some trepidation, but after the first two holes, when assured of the sympathy of Many shots that he had to face were utterly different, from the nature of the hazards, to any that he has ever seen before.

Vardon has been so written up by the best authorities abroad that the golfers who followed the exhibition knew to a great extent what to expect. Yet in the accuracy of the drives and the brassey plays, in the splendid style of the long and approach plays with the iron clubs, and in the excellence of his puttiron clubs, and in the excellence of his putting, although a mid-Iron was used and the greens were in a rough, winter condition, nothing like Vardon's perfection has ever been seen in this country. An added surprise was that, unlike Willie Park, Jr., the last open champion of the world to come to this country, the slow-back and heel-tapping style and effort on the follow through was utterly lacking in Vardon's display.

Courtney Too Sick to Coach Cornell's Oarsmen.

For the afternoon round Villepigue joined Singer as the teatmer in the new forlors hope. Villepigue made a brave effort, but, like voil and overanticly at his occasional brilliant plays could not atone for this weakness. On the lifth hole, where Villepigue lifted after getting into trouble from the tee, Singer won in two and near the hole, taking four more to get down. J. S. Williams Wins the February Cup After 8

Tie With Bradley-The Lincoln's Birthday Cup Goes to W. S. Edey-Guthrie and L. T. Duryen Divide a Five-Bird Handicap. Pigeon shooters turned out in force yesterday at the Carteret Gun Club traps at Garden City. Two cap events were on the programme, and they were won by J. S. Williams and W. S. Edey. The shooting was remarkably good and every winner had to work hard. The birds were a fair lot, good ones being sandwiched in among the weak. The light was rather poor, and a light wind helped the birds, making the majority right quarterers. The chief event of the day was the February cup. Seventeen shooters entered at $10 each. ten birds being allowed to a man. Several retired after missing three, with the privilege of shooting up if they got a chance. All stood at the thirty-yard mark. After the first round only five men had straight kills to their credit. Of these Stewart missed in the fifth round and Magoun in the sixth, leaving Williams, Bradley and Duryea with a clean record. The three were shooting remarkably well. Duryea's ninth bird, a twisting driver, died out of bounds. Williams and Bradley each killed ten and had to shoot off. Williams won the cup, having killed seventeen straight. Bradley drew a fast low driver in the seventeenth round which got away, although hard hit.

drew a fast low driver in the seventeenth round which got away, although hard hit. Duryea, Guthrie, Cart. Money and Magoun were tied for second money and agreed to let the score in the next event decide the winner.

The Lincoln's Birthday cup was an allowance event. The race was between Edey and Duryea. The latter missing his ninth bird, a driver, enabled Edey to win. He made a straight score. Those standing at twenty-seven yards or forward received an allowance of one miss as a kill. All accepted it early in the shoot and were soon on even terms with the others. This contest also settled the disposition of the money in the February cup, which was won by L. T. Duryea.

The day's shooting began with a handicap at five birds. Missea were frequent and at the end of the fourth round there were only three straight scores. These were L. T. Duryea, E. W. Duryea and C. S. Guthrie. In the next round F. W. Duryea lost a hard right quarterer. All the other shooters withdrew and L. T. Duryea and C. G. Guthrie divided the money. A miss and out followed and it proved to be one of the most remarkable ever shot on the grounds. There were fourteen entries, and at the end of the third round J. S. Williams, F. W. Duryea, M. Brown, W. S. Edey and J. S. Stewart were the only ones left in. Bound after round was shot and each man killed. Alter killing ten straight, J. S. Williams missed a first driver. The others kept in until the fourteenth round, when W. S. Edey let a left quarter was the first driver. The others kept in until the fourteenth round, when W. S. DYSPEPSIA If allowed to go unchecked will wear people down and wholly unfit them for social or business duties. Ripans Tabules will cure it. The following facts from a man living at Cramer Hill, N. J., bear out this statement: 'I have been an awful sufferer from dyspepsia and biliousness," he says, "and had the former in most all its forms. My worst feeling was in the morning. I could not drink tea or coffee, but what they would sour on my stomach and make me vomit, and I became so weak that I could hardly stand. My friends noticed my condition and thought I had consumption. About four months ago a gentleman, seeing what a pitiable condition I was in, asked me to try Ripans Tabules, and I did. The next morning my wife told me to drink my coffee and then take a Tabule; and behold! I had no sour stomach, and it was the first time in two weeks that I did not vomit. That same day I took two more, and am now taking them about one a day. I am today a well man and have gained about twenty pounds since using them.
